Responding to Students in Distress

Employee Guide

April 2021

Students face many challenges that may lead to distress

- Fear of failure to meet academic goals
- Financial or housing pressures
- Uncertainty about career or future
- Loneliness, isolation and relationship conflict

- Family caregiving commitments
- Barriers to education related to health or disability status
- Experiences of harassment or discrimination
- Increased severity of reported mental health concerns

How can we help?

- ✓ RECOGNIZE common signs of distress in post-secondary students
- ✓ RESPOND with care and compassion to a student's struggle
- ✓ REFER to BCIT Early Assist and other supports as needed
- RECONNECT with your student to check in after taking steps to help

Ways to respond effectively

- Responding in a timely and compassionate way to signs that a student is struggling is key to supporting their well-being as well as their academic success.
- Comment only on observable patterns and be direct about your concerns.
- Refrain from passing judgment, diagnosing, or drawing conclusions about a student's experience.
- Be authentic and empathetic, avoiding unrealistic sayings intended to "cheer them up".
- Be clear about the scope of your role. Let the student know you are happy to listen, but would like to put them in touch with those who have the skills and authority to provide appropriate support.
- Feel free to keep a personal record of your exchange with a struggling student, but make sure to keep any notes separate from a student's file or evaluations.

Examples of effective responses

Respect for privacy and confidentiality

"Let's find a quiet place to talk. Is now a good time?"

Direct honesty and authentic curiosity

"I've noticed that you've been missing class recently and I just want to check in with you and let you know support is available if you need it."

Validation and reassurance

"That sounds really difficult. I appreciate you telling me. Let's figure out the best way to support you."

<ul> <li>Student communicates specific threat or intent to</li> <li>Submit an Early Assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist to ensure the</li> </ul>	In an emergency
<ul> <li>there is need for immediate emergency assistance.</li> <li>Examples: <ul> <li>Student communicates specific threat or intent to kill self imminently</li> <li>Student threatens to harm others or is behaving violently in a manner that risks safety of others.</li> <li>Student abusing alcohol or other substances on</li> </ul> </li> <li>2. Notify SSEM at 604.451.6856 so that they can provide immediate assistance and direct emergency services if they are arriving on cataly assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist to ensure that student receives follow-up support. Please note that Early Assist is an emergency response service.</li> </ul>	RECOGNIZE	RESPOND AND REFER
Student in medical distress needing immediate     attention	<ul> <li>there is need for immediate emergency assistance.</li> <li>Examples: <ul> <li>Student communicates specific threat or intent to kill self imminently</li> <li>Student threatens to harm others or is behaving violently in a manner that risks safety of others.</li> <li>Student abusing alcohol or other substances on campus</li> <li>Student in medical distress needing immediate</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	<ol> <li>Notify SSEM at 604.451.6856 so that they can provide immediate assistance and direct emergency services if they are arriving on campus.</li> <li>Submit an Early Assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist to ensure that the student receives follow-up support. Please note that Early Assist is not</li> </ol>

WHY EARLY ASSIST?

The Student Life Office receives and assesses all Early Assist referrals. If action is needed, the Student Life Office reaches out to the student and connects them with appropriate supports. While Early Assist is not for emergencies, submitting a referral after an`emergency situation ensures that the Student Life Office can provide the student with any follow-up information they need.

High concern

RESPOND AND REFER
Weekdays 8:30am - 4:30pm
<ul> <li>Early Assist: 604.451.6863/604.431.4972;</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Counselling &amp; Student Development: Free, confidential, multi-session professional counselling for BCIT students at 604.432.8608.</li> </ul>
All other days/times
<ul> <li>If unsure how to respond, call the Crisis Center of BC (1.800.784.2433) for consultation and appropriate referrals. If consultation indicates emergency action is required, call 911 then notify SSEM 604.451.6856).</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>If still unclear about whether immediate support is required, call SSEM 604.451.6856).</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Provide student with the following referrals:</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>BC Crisis Centre 24/7 (1.800.784.2433);</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Here2Talk.ca for 24/7 phone or text counselling (1.877.857.3397);</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>BCIT Student Health/Counselling &amp; Student Development 604.432.8608]</li> </ul>
• After supporting the student in the moment, submit an Early Assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist and let the student know so they will expect to hear from an Early Assist Case Manager. Follow up next business day at one of the above Weekday 8:30am to 4:30pm contacts.

STUDENT SUICIDALITY

All indications of suicidality must be taken seriously to ensure that students get the help they need. A student experiencing suicidal thoughts may or may not be at immediate risk of harming themselves, but always needs a compassionate, supportive and timely response. If you are unclear whether to call 911 and notify SSEM or refer to non-emergency supports, seek consultation as indicated under Respond & Refer.

Moderate concern
RECOGNIZE	RESPOND AND REFER
A student is in distress and the employee is not concerned about immediate safety but observes that the student requires follow-up support within 2 business days. Examples:	Weekdays 8:30am – 4:30pm: Submit an Early Assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist to ensure the student receives follow-up support. Let the student know that you have submitted the referral so that they will expect to hear from an Early Assist Case Manager.
Sudden decline in performance	All other days/times:
<ul> <li>Frequent absences</li> </ul>	For same-day support, provide the following referrals:
<ul> <li>Sudden change in behavior</li> </ul>	• BC Crisis Centre (1.800.784.2433);
<ul> <li>Poor hygiene</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Here2Talk.ca for 24/7 phone or text counselling (1.877.857.3397);</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Difficulty managing workload or meeting deadlines</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Be sure to submit an Early Assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist.</li> </ul>

Internal contacts

/ice	Contact	Service	Contact
CIT Safety, Security	604.451.6856	Early Assist/ Student Life Office	604.451.6863
3 Emergency Management	bcit.ca/safetyandsecurity		604.431.4972
			early_assist@bcit.ca
			bcit.ca/earlyassist
Student Financial Aid	604.432.8555	Indigenous Initiatives	604.432.8474
& Awards	bcit.ca/finaid	& Partnerships	gathering_place@bcit.ca
			bcit.ca/indigenous
Counselling & Student	604.432.8608	International Student Centre	604.432.8816
Development	bcit.ca/counselling		isc_info@bcit.ca
			bcit.ca/international
Student Health Services	604.432.8608	BCITSA Advocacy	604.432.8279
	bcit.ca/health-services		advocacy@bcitsa.ca
			bcitsa.ca/advocacy
Accessibility Services	604.451.6963	Office of Respect, Diversity	604.432.8409
	accessibility@bcit.ca	& Inclusion	respect@bcit.ca
	bcit.ca/accessibility		bcit.ca/harrassment

External contacts

Service	Contact	Serv
Police, Fire, Ambulance	911	Suicide
Crisis Center of BC (24/7)	1.800.784.2433	BC Mer
Here2Talk.ca [24/7 counselling]	1.877.857.3397	VictimL

Service	Contact
Suicide Prevention Hotline	1.800.784.2433
BC Mental Health Support Line	310.6789
VictimLinkBC	1.800.563.0808

If you have not done so already, submit an Early Assist referral at bcit.ca/early-assist to ensure that the student receives follow-up support. Where possible, let the student know you have submitted the referral so that they will expect to hear from an Early Assist Case Manager.