Policy Statement

BCIT believes in the value of educational affiliations in supporting our ability to meet our mandate and mission. Educational affiliations extend the Institute's ability to develop exemplary learning experiences for students, provide opportunities for faculty development, and create collaborations for applied research and scholarship.

BCIT may enter into affiliations with other educational institutions, business, industry, community organizations, and others. Examples of educational affiliations include joint credentials offered with other post-secondary institutions, specialized programs offered as industry partnership certificates, programs incorporating curriculum developed in partnership with industry or community organizations, and collaborative research projects, among others.

This policy supports BCIT's Strategic Plan, enabling the Institute to achieve its goals and objectives – sustaining the quality of education and the ultimate success of its students.

- communicate the guiding principles for educational affiliations entered into by the Institute

- align with the College and Institute Act and expectations of the Ministry of Post-Secondary Education and Future Skills regarding educational affiliations

Guiding Principles for Educational Affiliations

While it is recognized that educational affiliations are developed on an individual basis, the following guiding principles should form the basis of all affiliations.

1. Alignment with BCIT Strategic Direction

- All educational affiliations will align with and complement the mission, vision, mandate, and strategic direction of BCIT.
- Any educational affiliation will appropriately recognize BCIT's contributions and expertise.

2. Compatible Goals and Values

- Educational affiliation opportunities will be considered with organizations that share compatible goals and values with BCIT.
- Educational affiliations should be consistent with the philosophy, values, and goals of post-secondary education within Canada.
- Educational affiliations must conform to BCIT policies and procedures and respect the process of due diligence.

3. Purpose

- Educational affiliations should meet an identified educational or applied research purpose, and enhance the quality, range, and relevance of BCIT's educational and applied research offerings.
- Educational affiliations should be structured around meaningful collaborations where all participants recognize a true synergy that cannot be achieved independently.
- Educational affiliations should be mutually beneficial and respect the expertise and resources that each partner contributes.
- Educational affiliations should facilitate excellence in teaching, learning and/or applied research at BCIT.

4. Educational Quality and Integrity

- BCIT has ultimate responsibility for the quality, academic standards, and student experience of any academic award or credential granted in its name, wherever these take place and whoever provides them.
- Academic standards of an award or credential involving an educational affiliation should be equivalent to comparable awards or credentials delivered at BCIT.

- Educational affiliations should recognize the respective roles of the BCIT Education Council and Board of Governors in decision-making over educational matters.
- Acknowledgement of the contributions of BCIT's educational partners should not be done in a manner that interferes with the atmosphere of open discussion and debate in the educational activities of the Institute. Educational affiliations must ensure academic freedom consistent with BCIT's established policy.

5. Benefit vs. Risk

- An educational affiliation should have evident benefits for all partners, while minimizing risk to any partner.
- BCIT will enter into educational affiliations with partners who can demonstrate appropriate academic, financial, and legal standing.
- All educational affiliations must be open to public scrutiny such that both internal and external stakeholders are satisfied that the affiliation is not compromised by private interests.
- All educational affiliations should protect intellectual property.
- All affiliations will be subject to periodic review, at least every five years.
